

Drinking and Driving

The London Road Safety Council were disappointed that the government did not take the opportunity to lower the drink drive limit following the publication of the North Report.

A great deal of work has been done to change attitudes towards drinking alcohol in excess of the legal limit and driving and we believe that such behaviour is now generally socially unacceptable. We feel that the message should now be – Don't drink any alcohol if you intend to drive' and that legislation should be moving towards zero tolerance.
